Crescent City Christmas Festival and Parade— December 5th & 6th in Eva Lyon Park

The newly reformed Lion's Club, working with the Multicultural Arts Guild has agreed to take on the Christmas Festival to keep the tradition alive!

Crescent City Yacht Club Lighted Boat Parade— December 6th On Crescent Lake Starting at sundown.

18 Cyclists from three different surrounding Counties recently paid a visit to Crescent City

These bi-pedal visitors are just friends Flagler St Johns, Volusia and Putnam County who like to get together for cycling and socializing. It is this type of tourism that the City is hoping to attract with a much talked about bicycle path proposed for our City. Once the a design consultant is officially retained (which will be paid for FDOT), we will be scheduling a workshop to discuss the merits of the project and some concepts for the route.

These visitors to our town thought it was a great idea. Be on the look out for notices regarding the workshop so you can voice your ideas about the project.

Crescent City's Traditional Christmas Festival Being Kept Alive by the Newly Reformed Lions Club!

The Crescent City Celebration Committee, the local group of volunteers that came together last year to bring the Christmas Festival back to life last year did not reform to keep it going again this year. But never fear! The newly reformed Lions Club made up of residents and business owners from the Crescent City area has decided to take on the task. However, they are understandably late getting started considering they only recently formed the club; and they need all the help they can get to make it a success.

A big chunk of that help is coming from another newly formed group of community minded people — the Multicultural Arts Guild, Inc or MAGI — who will be managing an arts and crafts vendor set up they call "The Mistletoe Market".

You can help this effort in several ways: volunteer to help with the leg work to set it up; participate in the parade or just spread the word and bring your friends and neighbors to enjoy the event. Visit the Lions Club Facebook page for event and contact information:
